PROFILE

I recently completed a 15-week web development boot camp at Dev Academy. I first learned HTML and CSS during high school, and I was fascinated by how my code could produce immediate results and solve problems. As a child, I loved playing with cubes, and the thrill I felt when I solved a problem was unforgettable. I find a similar joy in coding even though I often get stuck, the excitement of solving a problem keeps me motivated to continue. Recently, I spoke with someone from a tech background, which inspired me to take on the challenge once again. This time, I am determined to not give up and to continuously improve myself.
